Use of IP Addresses and Cookies:

A unique number called an IP address identifies every computer on the Internet. Each time you connect to the Internet your machine is assigned an IP address. The Greene County Foundation may set and access cookies to improve our level of service to our visitors. Cookies are lines of text that are transmitted to your web browser when you click on a site. Your browser stores the information on your hard drive and when you return to that site later, the cookie is transmitted back to the server that originally sent it to you. Cookies provide a way for a server to recall a previous request or registration or to keep track of a transaction in progress so that information does not have to be repeated.

The Greene County Foundation may also collect certain demographic information about visitors to our site through the use of cookies. The Foundation only uses this data to improve the overall website and for internal business purposes.
